Stinger men's hockey team set for preseason

After four weeks of training camp and intensive conditioning head coach Kevin Figsby and the Concordia Stinger men's hockey team are ready for some action. Their new campaign begins this week with two preseason games.

On Wednesday, the Stingers will travel to Trois-Rivières to play the Patriotes. Game time is 7:30 p.m. The next matchup is at home versus the McGill Redmen on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

There will be some old familiar faces in the lineup. Karl Castonguay, a third-year defenceman who was second in team scoring last season with 10 goals and 25 assists for 35 points in 32 games, will anchor the defence. He will be joined by veterans Vince Labossière and Eric Jenkins.

Newcomers to watch out for include: centre David Comeau, who played for the Acadie Bathurst Titans of the QMJHL last season, and centre Chris Page, a transfer from University of Vermont.

Rounding out the preseason, Concordia will host UQTR on Oct. 11 at 8 p.m. and then travel to the States to play Holy Cross and University of Connecticut. The OUA season begins Oct. 20 with the Stingers playing host to the RMC Paldins.

Concordia Athletes of the Week

Lynda Domazet of the women's rugby team and Xavier Renard of the men's soccer team have been named Concordia Stinger athletes of the week for the period ending Oct. 1.

Domazet, a third-year winger, collected four tries in two games for the Stingers last week. In Concordia's 25-0 win over the Ottawa Gee-Gees last Wednesday, she scored one try. Then in Saturday's 68-0 win over the Bishop's Gaiters, Domazet collected three tries. A native of Montreal, she is studying in the finance program at Concordia.

Renard was instrumental in helping his team pick up a couple of points last week. The 23-year-old mid-fielder had strong outings in Concordia's 2-1 loss to the McGill Redmen last Friday night and in the team's 3-1 victory over the Laval Rouge et Or on Sunday. He was named player of the game on both occasions. Renard, a native of Flines-les-Raches, France, is a marketing student.
